A-101		Accessing Health Care: Responding to Diversity For the first time, this book draws together examples of how to deal with diversity from health systems across the industrialized world. It considers population groups within countries and takes a broad approach, studying inherent population diversity (age, sex), citizen issues (migrants, asylum seekers), and ethnic and indigenous groups (multiculturalism in the UK, Roma in Europe, New Zealand Māori, Australian Aborigines). It identifies barriers to accessing health care services by diverse populations and cultural groups within different countries and considers the advantages and disadvantages of different delivery models for different population groups. This book provides an unparalleled breadth of perspectives from which to draw conclusions about how to meet the needs of societies characterized by diversity.
A-110		Achieving and Sustaining Institutional Excellence for the First Year of College Thirteen colleges and universities representing a broad spectrum of campus types were selected as exceptional institutions that place a high priority on the first year experience. The colleges' best practices in teaching, assessing, and retaining first year college students were studied as part of a sponsored project to recognize colleges and universities as "Institutions of Excellence" in their design and execution of the first year college student. The individual case studies offer lessons learned and have broad potential application beyond the particular type of institution represented.
A-120		Addressing Racism: Facilitating Cultural Competence in Mental Health and Educational Settings This provocative book identifies and addresses racism in mental health and educational settings, providing proven strategies for overcoming this stubborn barrier to culturally competent practice. While addressing overt forms of racism, the book also explores and sensitizes practitioners to covert and unintentional forms of racism that may be equally detrimental in denying persons of color access to unbiased, high-quality education and mental health care.
A-130		Affirmative Action in Medicine: Improving Health Care for Everyone Author James L. Curtis evaluates the outcomes of affirmative action efforts over the past thirty years. He describes formidable barriers to minority access to medical-education opportunities and the resulting problems faced by minority patients in receiving medical treatment. His progress report includes a review of two thousand minority students admitted to U.S. medical schools in 1969, following them through graduation and their careers and comparing them with two thousand of their nonminority peers. These samples provide an important look at medical schools that, while heralding dramatic progress in physician education and training opportunity, indicate much room for further improvement.
A-140		Afromation: 366 Days of American History AFROMATION is a perpetual calendar with the dates serving as a chronological guide to "on this day in history," and as a page reference number for our 366 categorized and alphabetized biographies of notable African-Americans from the past. The format was designed with education and user friendliness in mind. You can utilize this "book" day-by-day, or refer to the table of contents and index to find that individual or subject that most interests you. However utilized, this is not intended to be the definitive "book" on African-American history, but just a taste of a proud history.

A-150		The African American Experience in Texas: An Anthology In the past forty years, an appreciable body of scholarship has accumulated on the history of African Americans in Texas. Yet never before has anyone gathered this work into any easily accessible format for wide consumption. Gathered for historians, teachers, students, and others interested in the lives and contributions of African American Texans, this anthology sheds light on events, people, ideas, and communities that have significantly shaped the state’s history.
A-160		At the Essence of Learning: Multicultural Education Based on the premise that good teaching and multicultural teaching are indistinguishable, this book support the belief that multicultural education is not a fringe or radical movement designed to threaten the basic mainstream of educational thought and practice. The child is the meaning-maker and the teacher's task is to build structures and create strategies that help all children gather meaning from their surroundings. Key questions that are address include: (1) What is the relationship between principles of general and multicultural education? and (2) Why is it important for teachers to understand this relationship?
B-101		Beyond Generation X Every generation gets a label, usually from the most visible and striking elements of its youth. Sometimes it is just a name that someone gave them and it stuck. Clair Raines takes the view that in the workplace these generalities only help as background for the daily contact and ongoing communication with young workers. How that communication can become more productive and lead to a management style that is effective with a new generation of workers is what this book is all about.
B-110		The Biblical World: An Illustrated Atlas Casting the tumultuous history of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam against the rich canvas of the Near East, The Biblical World reveals how three great religions emerged from the same cradle. Author Jean-Pierre Isbouts employs a non-denominational perspective and a wide range of sources—from ancient hieroglyphic texts to the latest scientific findings—to place Bible stories in the framework of history. Chronologically arranged chapters detail battles, conquests, tribal migrations, natural calamities, and more, supporting the stories with intriguing archaeological evidence. To locate sites and events, National Geographic cartographers have created fifty all-new maps of stunning quality. Hundreds of photographs and artifacts add visual excitement. Quick-read timelines link events across cultures while illustrated sidebars focus on what life was like during each era: family roles, farming, trade, dress, childbirth, burial customs, and other aspects of daily existence.

B-120		Body: The Complete Human: How It Grows, How It Works, and How to Keep It Healthy and Strong Ideal for families, students, and anyone who's interested in maintaining good health. Body engagingly reveals the complex and fascinating systems of the human machine; from head to toe, cells to skin, inner workings to outward appearance. Organized by body system, the chapters offer a balanced combination of basic anatomical and physiological information. Noted science writers Lisa Stein, Trisha Gura, and Patricia Daniels provide descriptions that are clear, accurate, and accessible to readers on every level. Colorful diagrams, amazing photographs, and miraculous 3- and 4-dimensional imagery, generated by cutting-edge tools, complement the text. The drawings of visionaries such as Leonardo Da Vinci illustrate historic advances in medical science.
B-125		Born into Brothels Born Into Brothels is a powerful story that unfolds in the red-light district of Calcutta; of a photographer that becomes a teacher, and the extraordinary children she meets who learn to dream with cameras in their hands. In the red-light district, over 7,000 women and girls work as prostitutes. Only one group has lower standing: their children. In the face of abject poverty, abuse, and despair, these kids have little possibility of escaping their mother's fate and creating another kind of life. Briski became involved in the lives of these children seven years ago while she was photographing in the red-light district. Spending time with them, Briski realized that their fascination with her camera could become a creative outlet. She began holding photography workshops to teach the basics of photography, from lighting and composition to editing and narrative sequencing. The results of their work together are documented in this book, which features short biographies of and photographs taken by the children, film stills from the documentary, and commentary by the co-directors Kauffman and Briski. The story they tell is one of the collaborative triumph of self-expression in a complicated reality.
B-130		Breach of Peace In the spring and summer of 1961, several hundred Americans – blacks and whites, men and women – converged on Jackson, Mississippi, to challenge state segregation laws. The Freedom Riders, as they came to be known, were determined to open up the South to civil rights: it was illegal for bus and train stations to discriminate, but most did so and were not interested in change. Over three hundred people were arrested and convicted of the charge “breach of the peace.” Those testaments are collected here. Over eighty contemporary portraits stand alongside the original mug shots and exclusive interviews with former Freedom Riders. Breach of Peace chronicles a chapter in U.S. history that hasn't yet been closed.
B-140		Breath, Eyes, Memory At the age of twelve, Sophie Cacoï is sent from her impoverished village of Croix-de-Rosets to New York, to be reunited with a mother she barely remembers. There she discovers secrets that no child should ever know, and a legacy of shame that can be healed only when she returns to Haiti – to the women who first reared her. What ensues is a passionate journey through a landscape charged with the supernatural and scarred by political violence. Breath, Eyes, Memory bears witness to the traditions, suffering, and wisdom of an entire people.

B-150 B-151		Brujeras: Stories of Witchcraft and the Super-natural in the American Southwest and Beyond A collection of tales of sorcerers, fiendish witches, La Llorona, the vanishing hitchhiker, ghostly apparitions, and balls of fire will fascinate and spook readers of all ages and backgrounds. The sixty-four narrators in Brujerías range in age from 70 to 98 years old. Their stories come from a variety of southwestern states, as well as Latin America, and demonstrate how the magical world of witchcraft and the supernatural connects Spain to Latin America and Latin America to North America.
C-90		The Cancer Journals Moving between journal, memoir, and exposition, Audre Lorde fuses the personal and political and refuses the silencing and invisibility that she experienced both as a woman facing her own death and as a woman coping with the loss of her breast.
C-101		Career Pathways: Education with a Purpose This book is about partnerships: how to build them, what to do with them, and how to sustain them. It also provides a framework for helping policymakers and practitioners, particularly at the state and local levels, think about how to redesign high schools to make them academically challenging and engaging, as well as allowing for the creation of meaningful student-adult relationships.
C-110 C-111		Caring for Patients from Different Cultures (3rd Edition) This book contains over 200 case studies, illustrating cross-cultural misunderstanding and culturally competent health care. The chapters cover a diverse range of topics, including birth, end of life, traditional medicine, mental health, pain, religion, and multicultural staff issues. The case studies highlight important concepts from the fields of cultural diversity and medical anthropology. This volume is an important resource for nurses and physicians in achieving cultural competency.

Completely revised and updated, it includes the latest information on the health care delivery system in a new organizational format. It examines the differences existing within North America by probing the health care system and consumers, and examples of traditional health beliefs and practices among selected populations. An emphasis on the influences of recent social, political, and demographic changes helps to explore the issues and perceptions of health and illness today.
C-240		Cultural Issues in Criminal Defense (2nd Edition) This edition is dedicated to those conscientious lawyers who, often with insufficient resources and by confronting negative stereotypes, fight to uphold the rights of their clients who are foreign born or from diverse cultures – the most complex of all criminal cases.
C-250 C-251		Culture and Clinical Care The people of the world can be seen as a tapestry woven of many different strands. Those strands differ in size, shape, color, intensity, age, and place of origin. All strands are integral to the whole yet each retains an individuality that enriches the beauty of the cloth. Both common characteristics of and the diversity within cultural/ethnic groups are described. Chapters in this book range in scope from cultural groups that are more homogeneous, such as Cambodians, to those that are highly heterogeneous, such as African Americans and immigrants from India. To keep the book to a reasonable length, the authors combined tribes or ethnic groups to highlight differences among them that are relevant for health care.

D-165		The Diving Bell and the Butterfly We've all got our idiosyncrasies when it comes to writing--a special chair we have to sit in, a certain kind of yellow paper we absolutely must use. To create this tremendously affecting memoir, Jean-Dominique Bauby used the only tool available to him--his left eye--with which he blinked out its short chapters, letter by letter. Two years ago, Bauby, then the 43-year-old editor-in-chief of Elle France, suffered a rare stroke to the brain stem; only his left eye and brain escaped damage. Rather than accept his "locked in" situation as a kind of death, Bauby ignited a fire of the imagination under himself and lived his last days--he died two days after the French publication of this slim volume--spiritually unfettered. In these pages Bauby journeys to exotic places he has and has not been, serving himself delectable gourmet meals along the way (surprise: everything's ripe and nothing burns). In the simplest of terms he describes how it feels to see reflected in a window "the head of a man who seemed to have emerged from a vat of formaldehyde." -- Amazon.com Review

F-101		First, Do No Harm A young doctor must decide whether last-ditch surgery will prolong a fifteen-year-old's life or simply prolong his agony. A poor, uninsured immigrant, paralyzed by a bullet in his spine, is explicitly offered the choice to die. A mother and father fight to take their fragile, premature twins off the machines that keep them alive. What is a life worth? And what is a life worth living? At a time when America faces vital choices about the future of its health care, author Lisa Belkin takes a powerful and poignant look at the inner workings of Hermann Hospital in Houston, Texas, telling the remarkable, real-life stories of the doctors, patients, families, and hospital administrators who must ask – and ultimately answer – the most profound and heart rending question about life and death.

Sichan Siv knew he would soon be a target—ending up, perhaps, as one of the millions of anonymous human skeletons buried in his nation's Killing Fields—so he heeded his mother's pleas and ran. Captured and forced to perform slave labor, Siv feared that he'd be worked to death or killed. It was only a matter of time. But he never abandoned hope or his improbable dream of freedom—a dream that liberated him, astonishingly, from his brutal captors and ultimately led him to the United States, where he later became a senior White House aide. Golden Bones is an extraordinary story of almost unimaginable hardship and remarkable courage by a survivor whose triumph over terror and adversity serves as a shining inspiration to us all.

H-160		How We Die: Reflections on Life’s Final Chapter Drawing upon his own broad experience and the characteristics of the six most common death-causing diseases, Nuland examines what death means to the doctor, patient, nurse, administrator, and family. Thought provoking and humane, his is not the usual syrup-and-generality approach to this well-worn topic. Fundamental to it are Nuland's experiences with the deaths of his aunt, his older brother, and a longtime patient. With each of these deaths, he made what he now sees as mistakes of denial, false hope, and refusal to abide by a patient's wishes. Disease, not death, is the real enemy, he reminds us, despite the facts that most deaths are unpleasant, painful, or agonized, and to argue otherwise is to plaster over the truth. The doctor, Nuland stresses, should instill in dying patients the hope not for a miraculous cure but for the dignity and high quality of the remainder of their lives as well as of what they have meant – and will continue to mean – to family, friends, and colleagues. Nuland also has strong feelings about suicide and "assisted death": the doctor should be prepared psychologically and practically to help the longtime patient slip off the scene in relative comfort. William Beatty

I-90		An Imperfect Offering In this captivating look at humanitarian intervention in the 20th century, Orbinski, former head of the NGO Médecins Sans Frontières (Doctors Without Borders), uses stories from his decades of service with the group to examine how to relate to the suffering of others. The author describes his time on the front lines of suffering in Russia, Somalia, and Afghanistan. When Orbinski recounts his second term in Rwanda during the 1994 genocide, the book reaches an emotional peak: it was his undoing, and struggling with the horror he has seen, he drifts into a netherworld of confusion, fighting to regain his footing as a man, as a doctor and as a putative humanitarian. His ensuing reflections on humanitarianism are as riveting as his personal thoughts, which include diary entries, recollections, and correspondence with friends in the humanitarian and diplomatic corps. The book manages to be both personal enough to construe the human toll of political and social disasters, without falling into the trap of maudlin, patronizing depictions of human suffering. Orbinski, who accepted the Nobel Peace Prize for Médecins Sans Frontières in 1999, does credit to his organization and his humanitarian credo. – Publishers Weekly

I-120		The Invisible Cure Some countries in Africa report that approximately one-third of their adult populations are infected with HIV. Epstein wondered how such a state of affairs came about. Seeking answers, she contracted with a biotechnical company to go to Africa and work toward discovering an AIDS vaccine. What she subsequently learned exploded some preconceived and widely shared notions about AIDS, about how African culture all but ensures its spread, and about what might be a deceptively simple answer to the complex question of how to stem that spread. Her absorbing report reveals governmental inefficiencies and medical bureaucracies and social structures that have done nothing to slow the epidemic's pace—and may be accelerating it. Besides the epidemic's social and medical aspects, she discusses the business of AIDS, and she examines the mystery of how the HIV infection rate dropped some 70 percent between 1992 and 1997 in Uganda and the Kagera region of Tanzania; she believes that the invisible cure involved in that plunge provides clues to resolving the issue of AIDS in Africa generally. -- Donna Chavez, The Booklist
J-101		Joan Baptista Van Helmont: reformer of science and medicine (Cambridge Monographs on the History of Medicine) Only comparatively recently have historians begun to recognize the importance and influence of Joan Baptista Van Helmont (1579-1644) in the history of medicine and chemistry. Van Helmont's theories on the nature of life, biological time, physiology and disease, the structure of matter, and the processes of chemical change are veiled in his writings by a brand of Renaissance mysticism. His organic conception of the natural world, together with his belief in alchemy and astral forces, has resulted in a predominantly unsympathetic attitude among historians of science, by whom he is generally regarded as purveying an unpalatable and inherently 'un-scientific' amalgam of medicine and philosophy. Dr Pagel now demonstrates that by painstaking analysis it is possible to appreciate the creative insights of a figure like Van Helmont. His book is a model of its kind, and is the culmination of many years of reflection on the topics discussed. Van Helmont's theories on the nature of life, biological time, physiology and disease, the structure of matter, and the processes of chemical change are rendered obscure by Renaissance his tendency to mysticism. This intellectual biography, the culmination of many years of reflection on the topics discusses, illuminates Van Helmont's creative insights.

And almost no modern surgeon back then would ever have dared televise in real time the unpleasant sights and sounds of his unpredictable trade. But Gruentzig was passionate about holding nothing back, believing that the sheer dint of his scientific honesty would be the key to gaining credibility among a world of skeptics.

P-90		Paradise Beneath Her Feet: How Women are Transforming the Middle East Coleman reaches across the Middle East and into Asia in her wide-ranging discussion of feminism and Islam. She profiles women in fields ranging from education to politics who live across the Muslim world and individually exhibit great courage in their struggle to create greater opportunities for girls. The foundation of many of their arguments is Islam itself, and the ways in which they refute sexist interpretations of the Koran and Islamic law will be eye-opening to Western readers who have sadly grown jaded on the topic of feminism. The rapid-fire manner in which Coleman travels from one hot spot to another, tracking political struggles both large and small, makes it clear that while the Western world grapples with how to meet the cacophony of voices from the East, so also the women of Iran, Afghanistan, Malaysia, and Saudi Arabia are finding a new and assertive way to communicate. Deeply religious, profoundly determined, and modern in every way, these are 21st century women bent on change. Hear them roar and see a future being born before our eyes. --Colleen Mondor
P-95		Pathologies of Power Pathologies of Power uses harrowing stories of life-and death-in extreme situations to interrogate our understanding of human rights. Paul Farmer, a physician and anthropologist with twenty years of experience working in Haiti, Peru, and Russia, argues that promoting the social and economic rights of the world's poor is the most important human rights struggle of our times. With passionate eyewitness accounts from the prisons of Russia and the beleaguered villages of Haiti and Chiapas, this book links the lived experiences of individual victims to a broader analysis of structural violence. Farmer challenges conventional thinking within human rights circles and exposes the relationships between political and economic injustice, on one hand, and the suffering and illness of the powerless, on the other. Farmer shows that the same social forces that give rise to epidemic diseases such as HIV and tuberculosis also sculpt risk for human rights violations. He illustrates the ways that racism and gender inequality in the United States are embodied as disease and death. Yet this book is far from a hopeless inventory of abuse. Farmer's disturbing examples are linked to a guarded optimism that new medical and social technologies will develop in tandem with a more informed sense of social justice. Otherwise, he concludes, we will be guilty of managing social inequality rather than addressing structural violence. Farmer's urgent plea to think about human rights in the context of global public health and to consider critical issues of quality and access for the world's poor should be of fundamental concern to a world characterized by the bizarre proximity of surfeit and suffering.

Woven through her story are the books she has taught along the way, among them works by Nabokov, Fitzgerald, James, and Austen. She casts each author in a new light, showing, for instance, how to interpret The Great Gatsby against the turbulence of the Iranian revolution and how her students see Daisy Miller as Iraqi bombs fall on Tehran. Daisy is evil and deserves to die, one student blurts out. Lolita becomes a brilliant metaphor for life in the Islamic republic. “The desperate truth of Lolita's story is ... the confiscation of one individual's life by another,” Nafisi writes. The parallel to women's lives is clear: we had become the figment of someone else's dreams. A stern ayatollah, a self-proclaimed philosopher-king, had come to rule our land ... and he now wanted to re-create us. Nafisi's Iran, with its omnipresent slogans, morality squads, and one central character struggling to stay sane, recalls literary totalitarian worlds from George Orwell's 1984 to Margaret Atwood's The Handmaid's Tale. Nafisi has produced an original work on the relationship between life and literature. --Publishers Weekly

The symposium summary, along with a collection of papers presented, is to help stimulate further discussion and action toward addressing these challenges. The Right Thing to Do, The Smart Thing to Do illustrates how the health care industry and health care professions are fighting to retain the public's confidence so that the U.S. health care system can continue to be the world's best.

Coauthor Relin recounts Mortenson's efforts in fascinating detail, presenting compelling portraits of the village elders, con artists, philanthropists, mujahideen, Taliban officials, ambitious school girls, and upright Muslims Mortenson met along the way. As the book moves into the Post-9/11 world, Mortenson and Relin argue that the United States must fight Islamic extremism in the region through collaborative efforts to alleviate poverty and improve access to education, especially for girls. T-95		Trainer's Diversity Source Book This handbook helps trainers and group leaders design and lead sessions that confront problems and tensions. Turning diversity from a challenge into an asset, these compelling, interactive, and engaging activities foster inclusive environments, allowing trainers to raise individual, team, and organizational awareness of a host of diversity issues. Developed to create safe places for dialogue, these activities allow workers to discuss "unspeakable" challenging topics, increasing cultural awareness and competence for the entire organization. The guide's analysis of the activities' impact brings a fresh approach to and allows for an evaluation of these training aides. It includes compelling, interactive, engaging activities that foster inclusive, positive environments that encourage participants to examine diversity issues through different lenses.
T-101		The Trainer's Handbook: The AMA Guide to Effective Training The Trainer's Handbook is the classic problem solver for experienced and novice trainers alike. It's packed with guidance for handling every aspect of training, from planning and preparation to writing lesson plans; using games, exercises, and visual aids in the classroom; selling the training function to senior management; negotiating with vendors; and assessing training results. It will help trainers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• develop and deliver training programs that enhance on-the-job performance</li> <li>• improve their own leadership and platform skills</li> <li>• use technology effectively</li> <li>• deal with training problems like illiteracy, reluctant (or overeager) participants, budget constraints, and more</li> </ul> This "bible of the training industry" includes new chapters on training for teams, on-the-job training, tying training to business needs, and training in technical and sales environments.
T-110		Trainers in Motion: Creating a Participant-Centered Learning Experience This reader participation workbook parallels Vidakovich's approach to involving participants in their own training. Vidakovich begins with an initial discussion of his approach, but the majority of the book is very hands-on, with descriptions of exercises, illustrations of room arrangements, lists of suggested approaches, and questions for you to answer. This notebook is packed with good ideas from an expert in training. It is recommended with confidence for trainers and workshop leaders. If hands-on is your style, you have a very well-informed friend in Jim Vidakovich.
T-120 T-121 T-122		Transcultural Health Care: A Culturally Competent Approach (2nd Edition) This textbook presents a framework for collecting health data about individuals or groups from diverse cultural backgrounds in a nonjudgmental way; this assists health-care providers in delivering competently conscious, congruent, and relevant care in diverse settings.
U-101		Understanding Families: Approaches to Diversity, Disability, and Risk The contemporary American family has many different faces, beliefs, backgrounds, and value systems. New and future early interventionists, service providers, and educators must be able to understand and work respectfully with families of every type, and they'll learn how with this accessible textbook.

W-101		Wake Up Your Creative Genius          This book can be the creative tool you need – it is filled with proven techniques and approaches to developing answers you can use. Some are practical, some are whimsical but they all have the same objective – to help you use the natural creative talents you have within you more fully, more effectively.
W-110		When Parents Say No: Religious and Cultural Influences on Pediatric Healthcare          Pediatric trauma and intensive care units are populated with children from all walks of life who speak various languages and have different customs and religious practices. They look to their parents to be their voice and to keep them safe. Parents are usually a valued part of the pediatric healthcare team. But what happens when those parents appear to be acting as adversaries rather than advocates?          What happens when parents seek to follow their cultural or religious customs to aid their child’s recovery and those customs prohibit or delay modern medical treatments? This book belongs in the hands of every pediatric healthcare professionals, as well as social services professionals and clergy who deal with children and their families in these situations.
W-120		When the Air Hits Your Brain: Tales from Neurosurgery          With insight, humor, and poignancy, Dr. Vertosick chronicles his remarkable evolution from naïve, young intern to world class neurosurgeon, where he faced, among other challenges, a six-week-old infant with a tumor in her brain, a young man struck down in his prime by paraplegia, and a minister with a .22 caliber bullet lodged in his skull. In candid detail, When the Air Hits Your Brain illuminates both the mysteries of the mind and the realities of the operating room.
W-130		Why Global Poverty?          Global poverty did not just happen: it is the result of the geo-politics of injustice stretching back centuries and continuing to our day. This book presents notes on the production of the film "The End of Poverty?", a complete transcript of the film, and over seventy full interviews - including Joseph Stiglitz, Amartya Sen, John Perkins, Chalmers Johnson, Susan George, and Eric Toussaint - to give an in-depth account of the methods of global economic domination and ways to remedy worldwide injustice.
