A Time for Burning

This classic film captures an all-white Lutheran Church in Omaha, Nebraska as their eager, but earnest pastor tries to get the congregation to reach out to their fellow black Lutherans. The camera is there when a brutally honest black nationalist Ernie Chambers tells Pastor Youngdahl that his “Jesus is contaminated”. The camera continues to roll as a church elder speaks passionately about the urgency of desegregation but then admits he’s never actually spent time one-on-one with a black person. As tensions threaten to tear apart the church, the film illustrates the anguish and awakenings of the civil rights era through the words and actions of everyday people.
